“I support NAMS financially because I am passionate about the organization’s Mission and Vision and the organization’s efforts to achieve them!”

Diane T. Pace, PhD, FNP, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“I would encourage others to view NAMS not simply as an organization but as part of a community of women. An organization is held together by teamwork and a common vision, but financial support is also imperative. Without financial contributions, it is very hard for an organization to offer all it is able to offer.”

Margaret W. Wong, Esq.

Meet Our Donors

“NAMS has done so much for me: friendships, cutting edge information, responsible responses to controversial products and scientific reports, and importantly, accurate and respected interactions with the public. I wanted to give something back.”

Leon Speroff, MD

Meet Our Donors

“NAMS is the premier resource for women, healthcare practitioners, and researchers to find complete and current information about the years surrounding menopause.

Funding this unique society helps promote healthy aging for all women through education, referral lists, and clarification of complicated scientific issues.”

Isaac Schiff, MD

Meet Our Donors

“It is my honor to donate to the NAMS Foundation which supports many invaluable programs related to the health of postmenopausal women.”

Risa Kagan, MD, FACOG, CCD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“I see my donation furthering the NAMS Mission to promote the health and quality of life of women through an understanding of menopause through NAMS scientific meetings and educational literature that communicate the latest research about women’s midlife years to millions of people.”

Ms. Lynn Sobel, Consumer

Meet Our Donors

“In my clinical practice at the Mass General Hospital, I can only care for one patient at a time. By donating to NAMS, I'm able to improve the care of thousands of midlife women each year, through high quality education for them and their health care providers.”

Jan L. Shifren, MD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“Since its inception twenty years ago, almost the entirety of my professional life, I have looked to NAMS as the bottom-line single-most reliable source of information about menopause and women's health at midlife and beyond. In calm seas or storm, NAMS comes through. Let's make certain our beacon of light continues to shine brightly and shine broadly for all to see! To the next twenty years of NAMS leadership!”

Cynthia A. Stuenkel, MD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“NAMS has the current and accurate information women need, and it is too good to keep within the society. I want to help NAMS disseminate it to more women and health care providers to make a difference in women's health at midlife and beyond.”

Marilyn L. Rothert, PhD, RN, FAAN

Meet Our Donors

“Menopause eventually impacts everyone, and NAMS is the sole organization dedicated to presenting truth to both consumers and providers.”

Wulf H. Utian, MD, PhD, DSc(Med), NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“NAMS is not only a source of current information but also a great source of reference materials that can be sustained only with the help of the NAMS Foundation. For me, supporting the Foundation is a way to say thank you for being there for me and my patients.”

Maria E. Bleszynski, MD, FRCS(C)

Meet Our Donors

“I respect the objectivity with which NAMS weighs evidence about women’s health and its dedication to conveying that evidence to the public.”

Pauline M. Maki, PhD

Meet Our Donors

“I hope my donation will support further study of menopause and the aging process in women and that my support will help get educational materials to those who need it most.”

Ms. Mary Waterman, Consumer

Meet Our Donors

“We live in times where financial resources are scarce... and we are all often bombarded from all sides to ‘give back.’ NAMS is an important and unique society dedicated to promoting midlife women's health and beyond. And unlike sick children, cancer or heart diseases, it may not be ‘sexy’ but is no less important to my patients. It lacks the philanthropic ‘appeal’ of these other areas and as such that is why I choose to help NAMS fulfill its very important Mission with my contribution.”

Steven R. Goldstein, MD, FACOG, CCD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“Since the first NAMS meeting I attended 20 years ago, NAMS has been the highlight of my professional year. I want NAMS to continue to serve others the same way.”

Margery Gass, MD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“I donate to NAMS because of its profound commitment to understanding menopause and improving health for women during the transition and far beyond. The resources that NAMS provides for clinicians, researchers, and the public, from its flagship journal to its guide books to its Web site, are truly exceptional and unsurpassed in breadth and quality.”

JoAnn E. Manson, MD, DrPH

Meet Our Donors

“I always consider it a privilege to be able to make a donation to NAMS. I know of no other Society that contributes so much to the health of women in their mid-life and beyond and to the continuing education of the professionals that provide for their care.”

Thomas B. Clarkson, DVM

Meet Our Donors

“I decided to start contributing to NAMS about 3 years ago, when I realized how much I had learned over the years from all these smart people! I am very honored to be a part of this extraordinary community.”

Tara Allmen, MD, NCMP

Meet Our Donors

“After attending several NAMS functions, I was impressed by this well-run organization successfully fulfilling its Mission to educate so many women. Partnering with NAMS and helping to further its cause allows us to give back to an organization that has given so much.”

Mr. Raymond N. Sussel
Financial Consultant

Meet Our Donors

“I donate to NAMS because I support the organization’s vision and mission and believe that, more than ever, there is a great need for an independent, evidence-based resource on women’s health at menopause and beyond.”

Elizabeth Contestabile, RN, BScN, NCMP
